

Flashbutt Welder

The state of the art track butt welding plant is mounted on a customised road truck fitted with special equipment such as outriggers that support welding operations.

This machine has the advantage of being roadworthy and can thus be moved under its own motive power to different work sites without the requirements of a low-bed truck.

